Young Professional Award
in honour of Lindsay Oxlad

Aim of Award

This award aims to recognise young transport professionals in Australia and New Zealand who have contributed to the advancement of the transport profession early in their career.

Eligibility

To be eligible for this award, nominees must be professionals working in transport who are no more than 30 years of age.

Criteria

The criterion used to judge nominations is:

- Significance of their contribution to the advancement of the transport/traffic engineering profession, relative to their experience in their chosen field.

Significant contributions may include the following attributes in relation to the nominee's level of experience:

- outstanding technical ability which has contributed significantly to improved project or program outcomes
- shown innovative thinking which has resulted in projects or programs taking a different direction and achieving successful outcomes
- made significant contributions - formally or informally - to their profession or to the professional development of their colleagues
- demonstrated superior professional ethics when faced with difficult decisions or when tackling adverse positions
- the ability to bring people together in a way which creates synergies and added value
- demonstrated superior organisational or business development abilities.

Nominations

Candidates may nominate themselves or may be nominated by a senior work colleague. Self-nominees must provide at least one referee, ideally a person of long-standing industry experience.

The submission should include:

- a brief (150-1000 words) rationale setting out the basis of the nomination
- any other contacts or referees who could provide more information
- contact details.

Alternatively, nominators may like to fill out the nomination form.

Submissions should be sent by email to secretary@ite.org.au by the advertised closing date.

Postal: PO Box 336, Balaclava, VIC 3183
Secretary: David Nash
Email: secretary@ite.org.au

Nominations for the award will be judged and determined by a sub-committee made up of ITE-ANZ executive board members and other transport professionals.

Nominators and candidates should note that the sub-committee may make enquiries regarding the candidate's standing within the areas of expertise and experience which form the basis of the nomination.

Award

The award will be announced at the ITE-ANZ Annual President's Dinner in Melbourne in November.

The recipient will be granted:

- an engraved plaque
- free membership of ITE for one year (reimbursement of fees)
- cheque for $1000, kindly donated by Lindsay Oxlad Consultants
- travel costs to attend the award ceremony if from interstate or New Zealand.
